

TENNESSEAN.com

CARS.COM

Ron Hibbard Toyota makes contributions to Vol State, CASA

Ron Hibbard Toyota in Gallatin made the holiday season a little bit brighter for two Sumner County organizations with a $5,000 charitable donation recently. And with a matching contribution from Toyota Motor Sales, the beneficiaries will each receive a total of $10,000. The lucky recipients are the Volunteer State Community College General Scholarship Fund and Sumner County CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates), a volunteer organization that advocates for the rights of at risk youth. Representatives from Vol State and CASA accepted ceremonial checks on Saturday, Dec. 10, during the Gallatin Christmas Parade. "We have been proud to be a part of Gallatin and the Sumner County community for the past 15 years," says Ron Hibbard.

"Throughout that time, we've supported the community in many ways. And in our times of need — like back in 2006 when our dealership was destroyed by a tornado — the community has more than shown its support to us. We're glad to be able to do a little more." Since 1991, Toyota has contributed more than $500 million to nonprofit organizations. Driven by the carmaker's belief in serving the communities where it does business, Toyota's Dealer Match Program enables dealer contributions to make an even greater impact on communities. To read more about the Dealer Match Program, visit toyota.com/about/philanthropy. For more about CASA, visit sumnercasa.net. And to learn more about the work of the Volunteer State College Foundation, visit volstate.edu/foundation.

Ron Hibbard Toyota
1435 Nashville Pike
Gallatin, Tenn. 37066
(615) 230-9000
ronhibbardtoyota.com

Ron Hibbard (center) of Ron Hibbard Toyota presents a check to Lori Johnson (left), resource development specialist at Vol State, and Karen Mitchell, Vol State's vice president for resource development.

Ron Hibbard (left) presents a donation to CASA's executive director, Carole Ritter. SUBMITTED